21 WARTBURGERS GAIN POSITIONS ON HONOR ROLL

Drewelow, Frederick, Fritschel Get Straight A Grades.

Twenty-one students of Wartburg college gained a place on the honor roll by making a grade-point average of 2.500 or above during the first semester of this school year. This honor roll shows an increase of two individuals over that of the first semester of last year.

Three students, one freshman and two juniors made the highest possible grade point average, 3.000. The grade-point average is determined by the following system: a grade of A counts three points, B counts two points, and C counts one point. D, F, E, and Incompletes are not included in the tabulation. The number of points received in one subject is multiplied by the number of hours credit that subject gives. The points of all the subjects are added and the total divided by the total number of hours carried.

The following students are those who are listed on the honor roll for the first semester of this year:

Irene Drewelow	3.000
Walter Frederick	3.000
Leonard Fritschel	3.000
Kenneth Heckrom	2.882
Arlene Carstensen	2.875

Council to Revise Constitution

Plans for revisions in the constitution were discussed at the regular council meeting Sunday, Feb. 6, in the recreation room of Wartburg hall. Suggestions by a special constitutional committee were considered. At present the proposed revisions are not ready for publication, but they will be in the paper before the revisions must be accepted by the faculty and student body before they become valid.

PARTY

Pi Sigma Plans Washington Fete.

Pi Sigma held its regular monthly business meeting Friday evening, Feb. 4. The meeting was opened by the president, Lillian Bogdow, after which the program of social meetings for the remainder of the year was planned and discussed. For February the club plans a George Washington party. The following committee was appointed to set a time and make arrangements: Esther Weis, chairman, Irene Drewelow and Geraldine Sixel. A new program committee was chosen to arrange programs for the regular meetings. Amanda Walck and Eleanor Gross serve on this new committee. Ruth Gerlach and Erna Mueller were appointed to plan menus and take charge of the Sunday evening meals which the Pi Sig club has helped with in the past and plans to continue. If you have a favorite dish let these girls know, they welcome suggestions.

After the meeting had adjourned, mite boxes were distributed to the members, through which the society hopes to realize its goal of $25. This money is to be used to aid a student in the New Guinea mission field.

CHAMBER OPERA PRESENTS "THE PRODIGAL SON"

"The Prodigal Son", a musical presentation of the familiar Biblical story, was featured on a Lyceum program presented by the Chamber Opera company in the college gymnasium, Wednesday evening, Feb. 9. HERTEL SPEAKS TO PRE-THES

"Biology and Christianity", was the title of an address given by Prof. E. Hertel, head of the biology department of Wartburg college, before a Pre-Theological society meeting held last Sunday evening, Feb. 6, in the club room of Wenck hall.

In his address Mr. Hertel discussed the factors of conflict between biology and Christianity, its influence on youth, and its positive and negative influence in regard to Christianity.

"As I see it," said Prof. Hertel, "it is not a conflict between biology and Christianity, but rather a conflict between Christian and unchristian beliefs. Biologically speaking such matters as the virgin birth and miracles are impossible, but the Christian will understand, and naturally accept such beliefs while a non-Christian will not. The same thing is true in matters of evolution and creation."

Influence on Youth.

In regard to the influence of biological teachings on youth, Mr. Hertel expressed the opinion that the student did not come in contact with as much danger in the classroom of our universities as is commonly believed. He said, "Any boy or girl who has been properly trained at home and who has the common sense, will receive little harm in the classrooms at our universities. It is the evil that he runs into outside the classroom which leads to his downfall."

Professor Hertel further pointed out that the pastor can do more during confirmation instruction to keep youth in "the straight and narrow" than at any other time. "My pastor was the best preacher I ever had, and many of the things which he taught me I will never forget," he asserted.

Prof. Hertel also expressed the belief that biology has a positive influence in regard to Christianity because biology encourages temperance in youth in the case of clean moral and physical living.

Preceding the address, the Pre-theological society held its regular business meeting. President Kruit thanked all who had aided in the work of renovating the chapel room in Grossmann hall dormitory. A motion was passed to the effect that the vice-president and the president with Dr. Haefner the advisor, investigate and suggest plans for some way in which to take in the Lenten season. After the business meeting, Mr. Brehmer, chairman of the program committee, introduced Prof. Hertel.

TRUMPET BEGINS DEMERIT SYSTEM

New Innovation Will Attempt to Increase Efficiency of Reportorial Staff.

Many important announcements were made at the Trumpet staff meeting last Thursday evening, Feb. 4.

Prof. Kuhlmann, faculty adviser of the group, discussed the new demerit system being put into operation in this issue of the paper. He stressed particularly the importance of getting copy in on time. For failure to get it in before the deadline, the reporter will receive one major demerit. Minor demerits will be given for various types of unsatisfactory work. Four minor demerits will equal one major demerit, two major demerits during a semester will disqualify the reporter for any award that he might otherwise be eligible to receive at the end of the year.

Braulick Speaks.

President Braulick pointed out to the group the value of journalistic experience in all walks of life. He also announced that, in order to make it easier for reporters to get their copy in on time, arrangements have been made with various other departments of the college. The English department will accept features and other stories as written work in some composition courses. Copy may be given to typing students who will type it in class.

It has also been decided that a plague will be given in the field of journalism each year, just as in other departments. Likewise it is thought that recognition in some form will be given to all reporters who do outstanding work during the year.

Braulick Attends Church Meetings

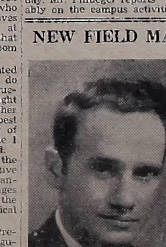
President E. J. Braulick attended the annual meetings of the board of trustees of the American Lutheran church and the board of higher education in Columbus, Ohio, the past week.

Permission to raise funds for scholarships for needy students was granted to Wartburg college by the board of trustees of the church at their meeting. The funds may be secured from ladies aid societies, Luther leagues, brotherhoods, pastoral conferences and various similar organizations.

Monday and Tuesday the board of higher education met at Columbus university, the board of trustees met Wednesday and Thursday in the church offices at the Lutheran Book Concern.

J. A. Pflueger who has been auditing books in Mr. Finch's office his also been a member of the Rotary club the past few day. Mr. Pflueger reports favorably on the campus activities.

NEW FIELD MAN



Rev. G. C. Shalkhauser of Birnamwood, Wis., will arrive at Wartburg February 24 to take over his duties as field man and public relations director for the college.

CUPID TO STAGE COSTUME PARTY IN GYMNASIUM

Prizes for Costumes Refreshments and Fun for All.

The student activities committee is at present making plans for a big all-school Valentine party to be held at the gymnasium at 8 o'clock, Saturday evening, Feb. 12.

It is to be a costume party with prizes for the best boy and best girl costume and a prize also for the best couple or group. The committees are putting their heads together, planning entertainment and fun for everyone.

The program committee, consisting of John Kuethe, chairman, Eugene Leschensky, Arlene Carstensen, and Norma Neubauer, has something good up its sleeve — you can count on that. The refreshment committee, too, with Miss Erna as chairman, Mae Cain, and Miss Kaiser promises something very good to eat.

What more, then, could you wish—pay costumes, good entertainment, delicious refreshments —it will all be there. Anyway, why don't you come and see for yourself; that's the only way to find out. Let's make this the biggest and best all-school party of the year.

NEW FIELD MAN TO TAKE POST

Has Been Serving Pastorate at Birnamwood, Wis., Since 1934.

Reverend G. C. Shalkhauser of Birnamwood, Wis., was chosen as field man for Wartburg college by the board of regents at its last meeting.

Reverend Schalkhauser was born on March 1, 1905, at Loganville, Wis., where he attended the grade school and public schools. He continued his education at Wartburg academy in Clinton from 1921 to 1922. From 1922 to 1924 he attended Wartburg college. The following two years Rev. Shalkhauser spent at Bradley Polytech Institute in Peoria, Ill., where he received his B. S. degree. He was then employed with the Block and Kuhl store department stores in Peoria and Rockford, Ill., as salesman and advertising and merchandise manager until 1931. From 1931 to 1934 Rev. Shalkhauser attended Wartburg seminary at Dubuque, where he received his B. D. degree. He was the manager of the Wartburg Lutheran male chorus during the 1932-33 season. Since 1934 he has served the congregation at Birnamwood, Wis.

DRAMATICS

Loots and Rappath to Present Skit.

A short scene from the play, "Pride and Prejudice" will be enacted by Evelyn Loots and Harry Rappath at the bi-weekly meeting of the Wartburg Players Sunday, Feb. 13, at 6:30 p. m. in the recreation room of Wartburg hall. Miss Loots will portray the part of Queen Elizabeth and Mr. Rappath, the part of Mr. Collins, a clergyman seeking the hand of the queen—in vain!

As a second feature, Ruth Fritz will give a reading, which she will select.

Following the program, games will be played and refreshments will be served.

Don't forget! Sunday evening at 6:30 in the club room of Wartburg hall.

Miss Fern Barcus, a student of last semester, visited on the campus last Sunday.

AN INNOVATION

It seems that many of us have not learned the fine art of selecting our readings in current literature. So much of our reading has become haphazard that we waste a good deal of valuable time on relatively unimportant matters. We read this, that, and the other thing and in the end derive very little benefit from this pursuit. There is even the possibility that some of us haven't any idea what magazines we have in the library.

In this issue the Trumpet has introduced a new educational feature, A Student Reader's Guide. All the literature recommended in this new column is to be found in our college library. The column is not to be a guide along a single road; rather it aims at widening the horizon of the average Wartburg student.

Dr. J. Hiltner, head of the Christianity department, has graciously consented to be the first contributor to our new column. In the guide appearing in this issue are to be found readings in religion that will be of vital importance and interest to each of us as Christians. Each suggested reading is also carefully annotated by Dr. Hiltner.

It is the hope of the Trumpet that the students will take enough interest in this column to warrant its retention as a permanent feature. If continued, further readings will be suggested by other members of the faculty, each in his respective department. The Trumpet will appreciate an expression of student opinon concerning this innovation.

"BOOING" AT GAMES

We heartily endorse the recent resolution passed by by the Student Council in reference to the "booing" prevalent at our recent home basketball games. Silent action of this type casts a bad reflection, not only on the students themselves, but also on the college. Let us practice the sportsmanship we expect of our players.

For the benefit of those who did not hear the resolution when it was read in convocation recently, we shall repeat it:

"We regret the fact that the students of Wartburg college have shown a tendency to "boo" the referees and players at basketball games and we desire that in the interest of good sportsmanship this practice be discontinued."

—Resolution of the Student Council passed Feb. 6, 1938.

MR. EDDIE TORIAL

Every two weeks Eddie Torial speaks to us from this page. His policy, whether chiding or praising, is always meant to be constructive, not destructive. In a friendly way he tries to give credit where credit is due and to point out the various weaknesses in student life and student projects, giving hints as to how they might be improved.

Eddie's life, strength, and usefulness depend, to a great extent, on the interest and support manifested by the student body ,the faculty, and the alumni. Without this interest and support he can do nothing. With them he can effectively espouse good causes and contribute to the realization of our college ideals.

SENIORS

La Verne Meinecke

La Verne Raymond Meinecke, who readily answers to the name of "Leroy" when only "mom" has born one fine day in December of 1914. La Verne, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Meinecke of Fort Atkinson, is a native of the far north, Charles City.

He attended the Charles City high school, St. John Lutheran college for one year ,and good old Wartburg for the last three years. La Verne is a Pre-Theology and will probably enter the seminary at Dubuque. One of his ambitions is to work for his master's degree in German and English either before or after he leaves the seat.

"Meiny" is president of Round Table this year, and is a member of Pre-Theology League, L. A. A., and the chapel choir. Last year he also belonged to Deutscher Verein.

La Verne enjoys watching a game of basketball—by the way it you want a lesson in how to shove pea at basketball games, consult La Verne. He also finds tennis a very interesting sport.

Meinecke's hobby consists in collecting outstanding phrases and lines or verses that he finds while reading. His pet preeve is tuning in on some very nice radio music, setting himself in deep thought and meditation, and having the music detonate into the tinny voice of some announcer trying to sell the radio audience dog biscuits.

One of La Verne's air castles consist of travelling to Europe some day, and then going on to Palestine and visiting the Holy Land. When asked if he also wished to stop in Egypt and visit with the Sphinx, he replied with an emphatic "No."

When asked what his favorite expression is, La Verne replied, "I don't have any favorite expression, just ramble on." However, a phrase that was repeated often and noticed by the reporter was "Skip it!" "Meiny" was very afraid of making a break and having it published in big, black, bold letters.

Immanuel Kuester

Immanuel Harold Kuester, commonly called "Immie" or "Dizz," was born in Renville county, Minnesota, on August 4, 1917, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Kuester. He attended junior high school at Ruplinger, Wis., Loyal high school at Loyal, Wis., St. Paul-Luther for one year, Northwestern at Watertown, Wis., for two years, and Wartburg this year. He is a Pre-The, majoring in Greek, and plans to enter the seminary at Dubuque next year.

"Immie" is the business manager of the Fortress. He has seven letters during the last three years in baseball, football and basketball. His pet peeve is that he is not eligible for participation in sports here this year. When asked what sport he preferred, he remarked, "I like anyding dats tough!" He enjoys working crossword puzzles and loves to tease people.

One of his most thrilling experiences occurred when he played on the Northwestern football team against Milton college. In the third quarter the Milton halfback fumbled the ball. Immie snatcher it and ran 60 yards for a touchdown. Shux, they lost anyway.

Another of his interesting experiences was his trip to the east last Easter with the male chorus of Northwestern. The group went through Michigan and spent two days in Toledo, Ohio where they inspected a huge art museum.

He says that he has the knack of almost drowning, for he has been in that predicament four times.

Immie is a romantic sort of fellow. He says he doesn't like blondes—she must be a brunette —eyes don't mean much—little nose—smart—at least average intelligence. But don't get excited, girls, if you fit the picture, for his one and only, M. A. resides in Milwaukee and gets letters regularly from Wartburg.

Waldemar Langholz

Waldemar Carl Langholz, the son of Rev. and Mrs. William Langholz, was born in Morgan, Minn., on Sept. 10, 1911.

Wally attended Brush high school at Brush, Colo. (did you learn how to brush, Wally?) St. Paul-Luther for one year, Hebron for one year, and Wartburg for two years.

He stayed out of college for two years during which he was manager of a produce house at Russell, Kan. You did right, Wally, to come to Waverly, the dairy spot of Iowa.

He plans to enter the seminary at Columbus if he "can keep passing these catchy examinations put on by some of the profs." Wally used to enjoy football as an active participant. However, with rheumatism and old age creeping on, he now enjoys it passively. When he said that, he added quickly that he could still play an active game of ping pong. Wally has received two letters in football, and used to go in for any type of character acting.

His hobby is taxidermy, the art of stuffing and mounting the skins of dead animals for preservation. If you want proof, he will show you a snap of himself in company with a stuffed eagle, owls, and squirrel. Not very lively company for Langholz, is it?

Last summer was very interesting, he says. Wally traveled by his own automobile interviewing prospective students for Wartburg. He says, "Of all the states I vis, North Dakota had the smoothest road; I only ruined one tire, broke an axle, and increased my vocabulary."

He says that once he came very close to drowning, and that he disproved all theories of only coming up three times, and was all ready to stay down when he remembered that he was wearing a new bathing suit. He immediately came up again, and this time was rescued.

Wally is one of our hard-working boys. He says that he works in the show and at the furniture store, and between times goes to school occasionally.

Wally admitted bashfully that his dream girl was a combination of Cleopatra, Claudette Colbert, and Marlene Dietrich. That's all right, Wally, but what would Vera think?

It was the presentation of "The Prodigal Son" (L'Enfant Prodigue), however, for which we all waited. This is a portion of the familiar Biblical story set to brilliant and striking music by Debussy. The opera was sung in English in a simple style which was easily understood. Its quality of simplicity made it appealing to all. The role of Simeon was ably enacted by Raymond Koch. Maria Melyan made an appealing picture of Lia in her interpretation of a mother's love for her long-absent son. Robert Long effectively portrayed Azael, the prodigal son, who returned home after a life of sin and shame. The scene takes place outside a village where the villagers have gathered in happy celebration. Lia, still nursing her grief for Azael, remains outside the happy throng. Simeon, her husband, comforts her and bids her enter into the merriment. After their departure, the prodigal son appears upon the scene, attired in rags, showing the low level to which he has sunk. Near his beloved parents, he feels unworthy to make his presence known. But Lia returns to the scene still mourning the loss of her son. Here she finds Azael and gladly forgives him all. Simeon, looking for his wife, finds her comforting a beggar. He is unhappily astonished when he realizes the beggar is his own son. Moved by the earnest appeals of his wife and the evident repentance of his son, Simeon forgives him, and the scene closes with the happy reunion of the family.

The roles were realistically portrayed by each. The acting ably added to the attraction of this lovely singing service, made it highly successful.

It was presented under the direction of Charles Lurvey, who also served as accompanist throughout the program.

Mrs. Wiederaenders celebrated her birthday last Sunday, Feb. 6. Congratulations and many happy returns of the day.

Time to go Holm now that the old Com(m)ick feeling has got us feeling foolish again. Poor La Verne We (Weisely) thought he had a vacation coming but a kind contributor handed this one in. STUDENTS HEAR ECKLOR'S SPEECH IN CONVOCATION

College Professors Present Religious, Secular Topics.

The Rev. W. O. Ecklor of the Waverly Methodist Episcopal church was the speaker at the convocation exercises of Wartburg college Tuesday morning, Feb. 8. Mr. Ecklor used as his subject, "Doing the best things in the worst times."

Speaking of such great men in history as Martin Luther, John Huss, John Wycliffe and John Wesley, the speaker showed how, through courage and strength of character the best things can be accomplished even in the darkest days of one's life or in the history of a nation.

"Are we doing the best things we can in the crises which face the world today?" he asked. Great things and the best things for the world could be done now, he said, for we are living in a wonderful age. "We have intelligence, scientific knowledge, every modern improvement and achievement, but we lack the courage and the magnanimity of soul, the biggness of heart to achieve the best things," he said.

"You will never accomplish anything," he told his audience, "until you have courage and magnanimity of soul corresponding to your intellectual equipment. We have wonderful possibilities but we have also lack of integrity in business, industrial strife, rumors of war, increase in crime and accidents. What are we going to do in these dark hours?

"If you will keep sober, keep our mental and spiritual balance, promote the magnanimous spirit, and the spirit of love, we will do something for the promotion of peace and the best thing in the darkest hours."

Wright Speaks.

Miss Helen Wright, head of the art department, continued her lecture on the development of Madonna paintings, on Monday, Jan. 31.

The advantage of panel plasters for painting was pointed out by Miss Wright. Formerly the artist was too dependent upon the lowly mason, she said.

Another great improvement was the discovery by the Hollanders of mixing oil with the paint. About this, Miss Wright said, "This new innovation spread over Europe like wildfire. The artists were simply drunk with power. They loved to show off their skill and they didn't know where to stop. Every blade of grass and stick of straw had as much work on it as the most important feature."

Miss Wright continued by tracing Madonna paintings through the "Golden Age" of painting, down to modern times. She remarked that the mother-and-child pictures of today are very lovely.

In conclusion, Miss Wright said, "I hope you understand that when you look at a picture and don't like it, you will reserve judgment."

"Each of our four gospels gives us a portrait of Jesus," said Dr. A. E. Haefner, professor of Greek, in an address during the convocation period Wednesday, Feb. 2, "and the features of that portrait are slightly different in each of the four gospels. We ought not to confuse those portraits."

Haefner Explains "Logos."

Dr. Haefner dwelt upon the gospel of St. John and pointed out the meaning of the Greek word, "logos," which we commonly translate as "word." However, there are many other possible meanings. Some Greek dictionaries give as many as 15 or 20, but they may be classed under two conceptions. "Logos" means either the idea in our head which we try to express, or the incarnation of a thought.

"The artist," said Dr. Haefner, "is precisely he who can choose the most exact form for his work. The finished product expresses exactly the idea which the artist had."

The speaker continued by indicating that a probable interpretation of John's thought in "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God" is that God's idea about men found perfect expression in Him whom John calls "Logos."

German Prof Talks.

On Monday, Feb. 7, Prof. J. Cornils spoke on the topic of Christ, our Savior, as the King of Glory. He showed that Christ has been treated in the literature of all Christian nations. He went on to show how the "Heiland," a German epic, treats of the work and life of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. In conclusion, Mr. Cornils urged the student body to be faithful in its faith and to try to serve Christ, each in his calling.

On Tuesday, Feb. 8, Dr. John Hiltner addressed the students on the Apocryphal books of the Bible, showing that they were the only source for the history of the people of Israel between the time of Nehemiah and the New Testament era. They contain stories of human interest, wisdom books, and epic-like stories, he said. He urged that the students read some of these.

AND THE MUSIC GOES ROUND WHILE THE FOOD GOES DOWN

Do we chew our food thoroughly, or do we eat too fast, thus "over-exercising" our stomach and causing weakness? Several college dietitians have found this to be the case and are trying to remedy the problem.

In the February issue of the American Magazine, this article was found: "Miss Georgia Smith, dietitian for St. John's college, Annapolis, Md., has installed a radio in the college dining hall and tunes in slow music to induce students to eat more slowly."

We feel that Miss Smith deserves credit for her efforts, and wouldn't it be rather nice if we would find an article in the "American" saying that the Wartburg dietitian has installed a radio in the dining mall to induce students to eat slower. Better health and more popularity, eh what? (New Deal Plan.)

Introducing this plan would require a few more "greenbacks", but indirectly the college would still be ahead financially. In our plan you pull a string and this is what happens: Students will listen to the radio in the dining hall and will enjoy the music; in order to keep their hands from being idle while listentng to the radio, they will keep on eating—even spinach spiced with a bit of "razz-ma-tazz" would taste good; it costs the college a little more for food because if the students eat slowly they eat more; by eating more, they will become stronger physically; by becoming stronger physically the students will be able to produce a stronger football team; a stronger football team will win all the games; by winning all the football games, Wartburg will become so popular that more students will enroll; the enrollment of more students will mean more money for the college. Because this plan is much similar to the plans advocated by President Roosevelt, the president will be pleased and will give our college more N. Y. A. assistance; more N. Y. A. asistance will enable students to earn more money; when the students earn more money, they'll be able to pay the college more, and thus, the college wins in the end. Atl very simple—all you do is install a radio, the "music goes round and round" while the food "goes down and down" and "comes out" in the form of energy on the football field.

Maybe our plan isn't so stable, but before it can be declared unsound it must be given a try. We'd rather hove the college give it a try than to declare it okay, because we would like to present it to other "institutions," too. Don't let us down—don't think it over! Promptness often pays.

Pre-The Thoughts

OPTIMISM

One of the outstanding characteristics of Jesus Christ was His optimism; it was evident in His teachings and actions throughout His life. When He began His ministry He had visions of great triumphs; when He gave the Sermon on the Mount He spoke, not for a nation, but for a race, when He had called His disciples He commissioned them to "make disciples of all nations," and when He died it was for a world.

Jesus was not one to think in terms of failure. Rather, He kept His mind on a goal and let nothing deter Him from achieving that goal. He received numerous setbacks, but they only gave Him renewed vigor. If ever an individual had just reason to be pessimistic, Jesus was that person. At two different times the people of His home village rejected Him—what could be more disheartening than that? Opposition to His plan was widespread—the general public and even the Jewish rulers took definite steps to oppose Him—He had only a few on whom He could depend. But, in spite of this powerful resistance, He would not accept defeat. However, this was not all. After working for three whole years He was arrested, convicted of blasphemy, and nailed to the cross. Subjected to the most ignominious treatment, and being in dire need of a few words of encouragement, He was deserted by the few friends He has possessed. What would we do if we were forced to endure an experience such as that? Think of the ridicule to which He was subjected, think of the suffering that was His, think of His having to endure all this without one word of comfort! Must it not have seemed to Him then that all was for naught, that all His work was in vain? But, through it all, He maintained an unquenchable spirit of optimism which has been adopted by His church, and which has been responsible for its growth through the centuries.

Why then do we adopt a pessimistic attitude towards life? What are our trials compared to those of Jesus? We must admit that they are infinitesimal in comparison. We students have coined a word for looking at the wrong side of the picture—we call it "griping". It consists in a destructive criticism of everything in general. The weather, the classes, the meals, the government, the theater, the athletic team, the rules of the institution, or even the professors may be the center of attack. And what is the result of this negative attitude? One leaves a "griping session" with a depressed feeling and with the idea that everything is wrong — that there is nothing much worthwhile in life.

Pessimism is the spirit of "griping", the student who is a chronic "griper" usually takes a negative attitude towards his daily work, besides being a nuisance in student groups. Let us try to rid the campus of this evil and adopt the spirit of Jesus, for optimism is a virtue which pays handsome dividends in uplifting the spirit and keeping a fine morale. Try it and see for yourself.

In her letter she wrote that she does not find the work at all monotonous, but has enjoyed it all along. She lives at her home in Orfordsville, where she is active in the local Lutheran Sunday school and choir. In the spring she plans to be married and will live in Janesville.

SCHIFFLER TO TAKE OELWEIN PASTORATE

Former Graduate of Wartburg, Clinton, Dubuque Sem.

Rev. Henry C. Schiffler has accepted the pastorate of the Zion Lutheran church in Oelwein. He graduated from Wartburg in 1924 while the college was located at Clinton, Iowa. His childhood days were spent in Avoca, Wis., where he also attended high school. Since the first part of December, 1937, he has taken care of all ministerial acts connected with the church at Oelwein. Arrangements are now being made for his installation, the exact date of which has not yet been determined.

Served Three Congregations.

After his graduation from Wartburg Theological seminary in Dubuque, Rev. Schiffler began his ministry at Tama, Iowa, and soon after was called to serve the Lamont-Dundee, Iowa, parish. For the past three and one-half years Rev. Schiffler has been serving the congregation at Arlington, Iowa.

Soon after his ordination in 1927, Rev. Schiffler married Miss Martha Bosholm, a graduate of Wartburg normal college. Before her marriage Mrs. Schiffler taught in a parochial school in Peoria, Ill. Rev. and Mrs. Schiffler have two small daughters named Paula and Marie.

Prominent in Conference.

During his eleven years in the ministry, he has become a prominent figure in church organizations. Since last fall he has been secretary of the Wartburg Seminary association, and for several years he has held the same position in the Waterloo conference.

During his college days Rev. Schiffler built up for himself a fine academic record and at the same time took an active part in various organizations on the campus. As a student he received the approbation and praise of his professors; today as a minister Rev. Schiffler has the respect and love of his parishioners, and is regarded as a capable and efficient clergyman.

Seminary Notes

Reu to West Coast.

Dr. M. Reu will be one of the guest speakers at the third annual institute for Lutheran pastors of the west coast. This institute will be conducted at Pacific Lutheran college, Parkland, Wash., on February 16 and 17.

The other guest speaker will be the Rev. Dr. S. C. Eastvald, Eau Claire, Wis., pastor of the large N. L. C. A. church of that city.

Wyland Explains Scouting.

Dr. Ray Wyland of New York spoke before the faculty and students of Wartburg seminary on Feb. 3. His topic was "The Boy Scout Movement Among the Lutheran Churches."

Mr. Wyland is responsible for the adoption of the present Scout plan by the Lutheran churches of America.

After giving a brief history of the Boy Scout movement in the world at large and then pointing out its growth in America, Dr. Wyland told how and why it was that the Lutheran church accepted the Boy Scout movement.

"There is nothing in the entire Boy Scout set-up that is contrary to or even infringes upon the doctrines as found in the Lutheran church," said Mr. Wyland. It was indicated that the one outstanding objection the Lutheran church had raised against scouting was to its "Scout Oath." He asserted it was not an oath but a promise, and that since the Lutheran church objected to the word "oath," from now on all Boy Scout literature will refer to it as the "Scout promise."

Jagnow Describes Barthianism

On Thursday evening, Feb. 10, Dr. A. Jagnow, professor at Wartburg seminary, presented the first of a series of five lectures on Karl Barth's system of dialectic theology. The first lecture was entitled "Experiences in Presupositions of Karl Barth."

Mr. Jagnow majored in Barthain theology at Yale university.

Male Chorus to Make Tour.

The Wartburg Seminary Male chorus will make a concert tour during the week-end of April 2 and 3. The chorus of 24 voices will sing in several Wisconsin churches. The male quartet will accompany the chorus on this tour.

New Vesper Posters Mailed.

Erhard Shalkhauser, middler, advertising manager of the Wartburg Vesper Half Hour, has sent out a large number of new and attractive posters and cards. This has been done with the hope of increasing the already large radio audience which tunes in every Sunday afternoon for the Wartburg Vesper Half Hour coming over station WKBB (1500 Kilo.) at 5 p. m.

Library News.

The 30-volume Americana Encyclopedia has been ordered for the seminary library.

Since more new books are being added to the library all the time, Lutheran pastors are given a greater chance to increase their reading knowledge by making use of the seminary book-loaning system. Any books, excluding those on the reference shelves, may be checked out for a period of four weeks. Rev. William Goetz, librarian, reports that more and more pastors are availing themselves of our library facilities.

Dr. E. H. Rausch has given a number of the Iowa district reports to the library. This donation will help complete the catalogue of the district reports of the Iowa synod which is now in the making.

A history of Wartburg seminary is in the process of being compiled by Rev. William Goetz.

Miss Eva Allenstein from Washington, D. C., is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Finch. Miss Allenstein is a sister of Mrs. Finch.

C. T. Langholz Serving on Wartburg Alumni Association

Rev. C. T. Langholz of Columbus, Ohio, member of the Wartburg college board, is serving as second vice-president of the Wartburg Alumni association.

HUTH TALKS ON THEORY OF PLAY

Adult Evening Classes to Hear Talks on Various Home Economics Topics.

Prof. C. Huth, assistant athletic director, appeared before Miss Ratzloff's evening class on Tuesday, Feb. 8, and spoke about the theory of play.

The first part of the address deall with the reasons why children play. They included using excess energy, the recreation theory, and the self-expression theory. "All that is necessary to explain play", said Professor Huth, "is that the child seeks to live and to use his abilities to express his personality."

The speaker continued by treating the various age levels and discussing the type of play in which each particular group is interested.

An informal discussion was held at the close of the address, in which various view points were presented.

On Wednesday, Feb. 2, Miss Trayer of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, Waterloo, Iowa, demonstrated the use of the various attachments of the machine to the home economics classes. In the evening the same demonstration was repeated, and the making of slip-covers was also discussed by Miss Trayer.

Coming Speakers

Monday evening, Feb. 14, Miss Helen Wright of the art department will address the class on the subject "Flower Arrangements in the Home."

Miss Arlene Russell, city librarian, will speak Tuesday evening on "The Public Library in Connection with Family Leisure."

The following Monday evening, Feb. 21, Prof. Swenson will discuss and illustrate the topic, "How to Refinish Old Furniture." The treatment of black walnut especially will be taken up.

All of these meetings will be held in the home economics rooms. The public is invited.

A Student Reader's Guide

In this effort of pointing out some current reading material for the Wartburg student who is religiously wide awake, several things are taken for granted.

First of all, the Wartburg student will faithfully read what every Lutheran reads, namely his Bible and his church paper. The Bible is the only book that carries with it the assurance that it will make us "wise unto salvation." And the church paper is the only source of information about the work of our church.

On the other hand, it is also taken for granted that a Wartburg student who is supposed to take a place of leadership in the church some day will develop the habit of keeping himself informed about movements which, directly or indirectly, affect the life of the church and which help in shaping the religious thinking of our day.

New Magazine.

Let me call your attention to The Cresset, a new magazine whose first number appeared in November. Read the introduction and sample the first four numbers. One sentence in the November issue is worth the subscription price for a year. "A child-like faith does not imply a childish intellectual life." This new venture by the alert leaders of the Missouri synod holds great possibilities. It will do much in counteracting the charge that the Lutheran church is a reactionary force, a left-over of the Middle Ages.

The spectre of war is hovering over the entire world. Can't the church do something to keep the world from committing suicide?

"Preparing the Church For the Next War" is the startling title of an article in Christendom (Winter 1938, p. 110 f.). There is dynamite in this study. Can we go along with the proposals by the editor of the Chistian Century? Or shall we simply stand by again as we did in 1918? Perhaps the article appearing in serial form in Kirchliche Zeitschrift (December, January, and February) will give us some directions. It deals with "Luther's Social Ideals in Relation to Our Day."

In the meantime, the Christian Century (December 22, 1937) describes "The Plight of Japanese Christians" and Time (February 7, 1938, p. 40) tells us that the war has stalled the co-operative enterprises of Japan's famous Kagawa. In a touching poem ("To Tears") Kagawa voices his feelings about this war. The dilemma of a Christian who finds his country at war is vividly expressed in two lines:

". . . I love Japan so fair;
And China too; this war
I cannot bear."

On the other hand, the famous missionary, E. Stanley Jones, feels that we should "Apply Gandhi's Method to Japan." Read this article in the Christian Century (January 19, 1938, p. 75 f.). We Christians certainly are at sea in regard to the proper methods of dealing with concrete social problems.

Perhaps the Rising Tide, organ of the ex-Lutheran Buchman's Oxford Movement will clarify the situation. It calls for a God-controlled world. It sounds interesting, but read what The Nation (January 1, 1938, p. 731) says about it.

Since we are here dealing with Psychiana religious quacks, did you read Time's story on "Psychiana," this "money-back mail order religion" of Robinson which nets its inventor hundreds of thousands a year?

"You are very religious," St. Paul told the Athenians who worshipped an unknown God. For a modern version of an unknown God read "I Believe" (Forum, January 1938, p. 59 f.). If you ask the writer what she believes, she will tell you that it really does not matter. This certanly simplifies our creeds.

"Religion is primarily a sociological and anthropological category," says John Knox, in writing on "The Bible in College (Christian Centruy, January 12, 1938.) Compare our program with the author's ideas about college courses in religion. Should Bible building courses be used as character-building courses? Or do we have to go to Arthur Compton's laboratory, University of Chicago, and find with him in the electrons and protons a basis for character building? Read the interesting account on this great scientist (nicknamed "Holy" by his students) in Time, (February 7, 1938, p. 40).

The poor "Social Gospel" which has such a hard time at present comes in for a searching analysis in Christendom (Winter 1938). Lutherans should read the story of the son of a former German Lutheran pastor, in "Walter Rauschenbusch: Twenty Years After."

Finally, you will enjoy the picture and story of Preacher-General Muhlenberg, again in Time (January 10, 1938, p. 49).

—J. Hiltner.

SWENSON CHAIRMAN OF CHURCH COUNCIL

Prof. A. W. Swensen was elected chairman of St. Paul's church council at its organization meeting held recently. This chairmanship is for one year. This is the third year that Mr. Swensen has been on the church council of St. Paul's. The chairman of the council is head of the congregation and presides at all of its meetings. One of the largest projects for the year will be the treatment of the parish house question.

V. T. SMITH ELECTED PRESIDENT OF U. I. U.

Dr. Vivian Thomas Smith, dean of Kansas Wesleyan University at Salina, was elected president of Upper Iowa University, one of the Iowa Conference schools, at the meeting of the board of trustees Wednesday, Feb. 2. He will begin his duties Aug. 1.

Dr. W. C. Mongold, dean of Upper Iowa University, has been the acting president the past two years.

Take It From Webster

"No more, no more, no more"—as Poe once chanted—will instructors in English tell you to accent the noun address on the other syllable.

And that isn't all. Inquiry may now be accented on the first or the second syllable, and ordeal, and combat as a verb, and the noun ally, and acclimate, and centenary, and adult, and abdomen, and romance, and discourse as a noun, and finance as a noun, and dictator, and detail as a noun, and pretense or pretence, and harass, and adept as a noun.

"No more, no more, no more"—isn't it just too good for words?

And that isn't all. The first syllable of sinecure is now long or short, and the same is true of jugular. And the first syllable of data now rhymes with say or with sot, and the first syllable of bouquet with new or with no. Furthermore, aerial is now a word of three or four syllables, and vaudeville, conduit, and rabies may now be pronounced as dissyllables or as trisyllables.

DIOGENES' QUESTIONNAIRE

By Ruth Fritz

Our bright lads and lassies had a real problem to solve this week—after all, it's about time they learn to tackle life's difficulties, so why not start right now with a problem that's liable to face anyone at some time or other? With reference to the girls, this was the situation:

"Your boy friend, that is the boy friend, is accustomed to taking you out, or at least seeing you, every Friday night. One Friday night he tells you that he has to write a term paper, and won't be able to see you. A little later you go out to mail a letter and meet him with another girl. What would you do?"

The boys' problem was stated thus: "You ask your girl friend, the girl friend, for a date and she tells you she has to stay in to study or wash her hair. A little later you go out for a package of cigarets and you meet her with another fellow. What would you do?"

What would you do, folks? Here are the solutions of the following:

Juneaver Radloff: "I'd just pass him up and wait until I got him alone, and then . . .!"

Arthur Neumann: "Well, either I'd go over to the other side of the street and take out someone else the next night, or, I might start whistling, 'Somebody Stole My Gal.'"

Erna Plotter: "I'd freeze right up, give him an icy stare and a mere 'Hello.' Then he'd have to make the next move."

Otto Paulsen: "I'd stop her and say, 'I thought you had a lot of studying to do tonight, not running around.' If she made no effort to redeem herself, I'd walk on."

Louise Huser: "It would depend on who the girl was. If I knew her, I'd stop and talk nonchalantly about the weather . . or something. If I didn't know her, I'd say 'Hello' and walk on."

Cletus Bergman: "I'd just forget she ever existed."

Esther Gruse: "I'd walk across the street and never speak to him again!"

Madelia Herschelmann: "I'd ignore him and then give him a taste of his own medicine."

Esther Weiss: "I'd start going with a Freshman!"

Raymond Kranberger: "I'd give her a sarcastic smile and let her know about it later and tell her that she and I were all washed up!"

Miss Niemi: "I'd say to myself, 'I wonder what he sees in her?'"

Wimpy Fuelner: "I'd make her apologize right then and there, I would. I'd say, 'Darling, I think you owe me an apology.'"

KNIGHTS DROP LUTHER TILT

Norsemen Prove too Strong and Have Little Trouble to Defeat Hertelmen 43-28.

The Wartburg Knights invaded the camp of the Luther Norskies February 1 and dropped a 43-28 decision to the rangy, sharp-shooting Vikings. The Norsemen set the pace throughout the game and proved their right to stand undefeated in the Iowa loop. The game was marked by a considerable number of fouls, 33 in number. In the second half Coach Peterson substituted quite freely, using 12 men in all. The large playing floor seemed to bother the Hertelmen since they could not gauge their shooting distance accurately.

The Luther quintet forged into the lead right at the start. At half-time the score stood 21-13. In the second half the Norskies steadily drew away from the Knights, and the final whistle saw them ahead by a comfortable 15-point margin. Anderson, center, chalked up ten points to take scoring honors for the evening. Harden, Luetkens and Opperman led the Knights with nine, eight and seven points respectively.

COLLEGE COEDS TRIUMPH 23-21

Win Over Readlyn Rivals to Avenge Former Defeat; V. Gluck Leads in Scoring.

The Wartburg Rinkydinkettes found revenge in defeating a determined Readlyn high school team 23-21 in a fast and exciting game on the college gym floor Monday, Jan. 31.

The game started slowly, and at the end of the first quarter the host team had forged into a 5-4 lead. During the second period each scored one field goal, although both outfits seemed to be gathering momentum as the contest aged.

The fireworks began in the second half when the two teams began to find the basket. The Readlyn girls demonstrated a spirited offense during this period and hurriedly overcame the Knighties, pulling into the lead. The score stood at 17-13 with one quarter to play.

The final quarter was one of those things which you read about in the story books. The college kids, led by the brilliant Viv Gluck, and aided by their ever-tightening defense, recaptured the lead and held it to the end, although their opponents stubbornly crept up to within two points.

As usual Vivian Gluck led the attack for Miss Kaiser's girls, scoring 16 points. She was closely followed by Miss Westendorf of Readlyn, who scored one less marker.

WARTBURG LOSES TO BUENA VISTA

Accuracy from Free Throw Line Outstanding for Both of the Teams.

The Wartburg Knights lost a thrilling battle to Buena Vista Thursday, Feb. 3, at the local high school gymn by the score 36-33.

The score at the half was 16-15 with Wartburg holding the slight advantage which they managed to hold all during the half. Opperman led the Knights in this half.

The second canto began in the same see-saw manner in which the first half was played. At the middle of the half the Buena Vistans spurted ahead with a seven-point splurge. Striving hard, the Knights fought gamely, but were turned back. With only a few minutes left, both veteran guards for Wartburg were forced out of the game on fouls. The score stood 34-33 for Buena Vista with 30 seconds to play when Rubis sank a long one to put the game on ice.

The accuracy from the free-throw line was outstanding in this game. The Wartburgers sank 13 out of 19 attempts, while Buena Vista succeeded in swishing the net for six out of 12.

Opperman led the Hertelmen with nine points, while Cuddy paced the Buena Vista attack with 12 counters.

LITTLE KNIGHTS ARE DEFEATED

Koob and Wagner Pace Rinkydinks with Eight Points Each.

The Rinkydinks lost to the Fratelli team of Waterloo Monday night at the high school gym, 35-30.

With Wagner pacing the Little Knights, they held a 17-12 advantage at half time. When Fiscus opened scoring with two points, he put Fratelli in the lead for the only time in the half. Koob, Engelbrecht and Wagner brought the score to 6-2 before Murray sank a charity toss.

Helped by Kalkwarf, the same three each contributed another bucket. Wagner again found the hoop for two points which Seidel duplicated. Engelbrecht then sank a free toss for the last tally in the half for the Rinkydinks. Fratelli garned five points before the half ended.

After two tallies by Koob, the Fratelli men went on a scoring spree, bringing their count from 12 up to 24 to lead by three points. The remainder of the half was very close until the last minutes when Seidel sank two field goals to cinch the decision.

Koob and Wagner paced the Little Knights with eight points each, while Seidel led the Fratelli team with 12 counters.

INTRAMURALS IN CRITICAL STAGE

Many Upsets Seen in Cage League; Lowly Cubans Push Leaders Hard.

A new sport has been discovered on the campus of our own Wartburg college. It is a combination consisting of wrestling, boxing, football, and basketball. There are five men on a side and two referees who chaperone the contestants. The sport is called intramurals. During the past fortnight this sport has been played night after night, all the teams have been matched, and the only result is about two columns in your and my Trumpet.

On February 1, the Cubans won their first game of the season, upsetting the powerful Alaskans by the score of 19-18. Fritschel, of the Alaskans, led the scoring with 10 points, and the mighty Matthias kept the men in white plenty busy by registering four personal fouls. Huth, the younger, scored four field goals for the upsetters.

Not to be outdone, the Costa Ricans Kirkdoerfer the dope bucket and defeated the powerful Canadians, who used to lead the league, to the tune of 19-14. The Canadians still maintain that the basketball just won't fit the Hoops. They seemed to have lost the magic Kues-ter open the way to victory. Well, I can only column as I see them.

Alaskans-Canadians.

February 5 brought Chiz Wagner back to the Alaskans, and the Northerners defeated the Canadians, 46-11, as Chiz scored 21 points. The Canadians emerged from the fracas Wagner tails behind them, and singing, "Ribber, stay Way From My Door." All I can say is, "That's Why Doorkeys Was Born."

The Costa Ricans threw a scare into the Mexicans on February 5, as they Mohr than pulled the score up in the last half of the game. However, the Mexicans remained at the Helms and you may Siever yourself that the rally gained nothing as the Mexicans won 44-22.

"Arf" said Sandy, as he and his team-mates, the Cubans, defeated the Costa Ricans 24-20 on Feb. 3. "O-tis nothing," said the Costa Ricans, "Huth afraid, you Freddy Cats?"

Mexicans-Porto Ricans.

On the same day the Mexicans Senft the Porto Ricans Holm on the short end of a 32-17 verdict. Yes, they could have Walcked. Huth scored 10 points for the winners. Unkie Ihnen had his wind cut off for a while but afterwards he admitted that the choke was on him.

On Feb. 4 the Porto Ricans Metzger Waterloo at the Hans of the Alaskans. The final score was 19-14. E. Wagner scored 13 points for the Alaskans and his brother Rich led the Porto Ricans with eight markers.

The Canadians were Moll-ed around quite a bit by the Mexicans as Ellermeier and his teammates displayed plenty of punch. (Punch doesn't mean a play on words, either.) Slinging Sam passed and Immy Kuester received and made the touchdown. Coach Huth quelled the storm by calming down to the gym floor.

In another exciting encounter on Feb. 4, the Mexicans did the Iron-man act and won their second game of the day, defeating the Alaskans 18-17. The Mexicans got the victory, the Alaskans got the defeat, Domke got sore feet. (Can you Fietz-ure it?) and your correspondent has writer's cramps which are cramping his style.

The Costa Ricans forfeited a game to the Porto Ricans because they lacked a quorum. This is true, just Augst anyone.

The Canadians once more found their basket eyes as they defeated Huth's Cubans in an exciting game which ended 25 to 24. Kuester Hertel-d all obstacles in scoring 13 markers.

The Costa Ricans went on a rampage in defeating Fritschel's Alaskans 22-17, as Unk Ihnen, a dead-eye if there ever was one, scored his usual 10 points. Metzger scored nine markers for the losers.

Two four-man teams met on Jan. 5, and the Cubans won their fourth consecutive victory in disposing of the Porto Ricans 26-20. Who dispose led the scoring? Sandrock, with 11 points.

The Cubans made it five in a row as they defeated the Porto Ricans by a score of 17-12. The score at the half was eight all and the Cubans really O-punned up with a scoring spree in the last quarter to cinch the victory.

During the past week three games have been played, although none of them have had any noticeable result on the standings of the teams. On Monday night, Rich Wagner's Porto Ricans forfeited a game to Unk Ihnen's Costa Ricans. This act Costa slight decline in the percentage of the Porto Ricans.

On Tuesday, Feb. 8, the league-leading Mexicans dropped the Alaskans by a score of 24-13, and the Cubans continued their second-round rally by winning their sixth straight game in defeating the Canadians in a close battle, the verdict of which was 32-22.

COLLEGE COEDS LOSE CAGE TILT

The Wartburg coeds traveled to Denver Friday evening, Feb. 11, and there met defeat at the hands of the Denver high school sextet to the tune of 37-30. Bergman, Denver forward, accounted for 29 points of the total of 37 which did not leave the rest of her teammates much to do. Viv Gluck, playing her usual good game, scored 10 points for the Knighties.

SPARTANS BEAT KNIGHTS 37-30 IN CONF. TILT

Dubuquers Paced by Schwartz, Avenge Defeat.

The Wartburg Knights lost their last glimmering hope for a conference title when they met a 37-30 defeat at the hands of the rejuvenated Dubuque Spartans in a cage tilt played at Waverly February 7. The Spartans, coming from their lair fresh with the glory of a triumph over the favored Luther Norsemen, experienced little difficulty in winning over the Hertelmen. Except for a few occasional spurts, the Knights showed little of their early season prowess, executing some bad passes and failing to sink many of their shots.

Spartans Lead 14-8 at Half.

Harden opened hostilities when he sank a field goal during the first few seconds of play. Opperman added a charity toss before the Spartans opened up with goals by Schwartz and MacDonald. Three successive baskets by Schwartz brought the Dubuquers well out in front. MacDonald and Peterson added two more buckets while Harden and Opperman contributed one bucket apiece plus one free toss by Luetkens. The first half ended with the Spartans holding a comfortable 14-8 advantage.

More Action in Second Half.

Becker opened the second half with a field goal. Dubuque then swished through three in short order. Luetkens, Opperman and Kappmeyer each added a bucket. "Tea-cup" MacDonald then dropped through a charity toss to bring the score to 16-21. This five-point margin was the nearest the Knights ever came to overtaking the Dubuquers. After that the playing was quite sporadic, each team putting on short determined spurts. Becker showed his prowess at the free throw line when he sank six out of eight tosses. The game ended with a field goal by Harden.

"Futchy" Schwartz, Spartan guard, took scoring honors for the winners, contributing six field goals. He was closely followed by MacDonald and Peterson with 11 and eight points respectively. Harden set the pace for the Knights with 10 points. Becker with eight markers, and Opperman with seven, were runners-up.

Again for the third consecutive time the Knights suffered defeat at the hands of a conference foe, the Dubuque Spartans. Luther, Buena Vista and the Spartans have all crushed the Knights within the last two weeks. The Hertelmen have certainly fought valiantly but defeat seems to dog their trail. Already the season is drawing to a close. There are only three conference games left to play, Upper Iowa, Buena Vista and Western Union. The season's wind-up game will be played with the Fort Dodge quintet on the home floor, March 2. The Upper Iowa game on Feb. 18 is the only other home game left. If the Hertelmen should win the last three Iowa loop games, they could still finish with a .500 per cent average.

—S—

"Peek-a-Boo" Luetkens.

Shorty Luetkens gave the fans something to laugh at the other evening when the Knights played the Buena Vista Beavers. The game was progressing at high speed. The ball rolled free on the court; a scramble of players ensued; and when they untangled, Wally found (much to his mortification) that Bill Kappmeyer stood astride his neck. The blond demon was stanchioned! I was reminded of a passage from Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" which runs as follows:

"Why, man, he doth bestride the narrow world
Like a Colossus, and we petty men.
Walk under his huge legs and peep about
To find ourselves dishonorable graves."

Yes, even a basketball game can take a poetic turn of mind if one cares to exert his powers of mental association to that end.

—S—

Why Don't Profs Yell?

One must really admire the rigid self-control of our professors at basketball games. Have you ever noticed how quietly they sit without a show of emotional activity. Students rant, rage, gesticulate, yell, screech, howl, wave clenched fists, and what not. Still the professors never bat an eye. Like the very Sphinx itself! We can just hear them say, "What fools these mortals be!" But I wonder if their inward feelings are really so calm. I bet they would like to cut loose with just as much vim and vigor as the student body.

Well, Profs, if you feel that way, just cut loose. We don't hold it against you. Don't ever get me wrong, I'm not advocating vociferous outbursts in the hope that some of you might contract a case of sore throat which might imperil your attendance at class the next day. Who would go so far as to say . . . hold on, now, don't all speak at once! Since the choir members dare not yell above a whisper, we need somebody to take their place.

—S—

Fighting Knights.

The Knights really exhibited a commendable fighting spirit when they tried to overcome the Beaver's lead during the dying moments of the game. The desperate rally brought the crowd to its feet, and it looked as if the game might be forced into an overtime. The spurt fell short of its goal but not because the Hertelmen didn't try. Keep up the spirit. We like it!

—S—

Believe It or Not!

Here is an interesting fact. When St. Ambrose played Columbia a few weeks ago, the game went into two overtime periods before the Bees were able to down the Du-Hawks. In that game only twelve fouls were called. But still more strange was the fact that only three fouls were charged against Columbia. It really takes clean playing to battle a double overtime period without committing any more than three fouls.

—S—

Clothe Thy Enemy!

The Wartburg-Buena Vista game really started off with a bang when the Beavers were forced to change their own jersies for some of ours which had "Wartburg" lettered boldly across the front—Wartburg vs. Wartburg! It happened that Capt. Luetkens noticed that the shirts of the Storm Lakers had numbers only on the back, contrary to the specifications of the cage rules. Promptly Wally protested to the referee who upheld his claims. The Beavers were marched off and soon came back with morbid looks of ignominious chagrin at being obliged to don the togs of their opponents.

Never let it be said that Wartburg is not hospitable to her foes; but the hospitality was so provoking to the Beavers that they showed their ingratitude by beating us. Oh, well, that's the way it goes . . . always biting the hand that feeds!

—S—

Intra-Murals

Of late there has been plenty of action in the basketball intramural league. Teams which have been riding the crest have discovered their position to be quite precarious indeed. The race has now proceeded to a point where any team has a chance to cop top laurels. Even the lowly Cubans who lost six games in a row have turned on the heat and are pushing the other teams out of the top ranks.

The fact that the faculty never produced a representative team has rather disappointed the students. Here was the chance of a life time to even old grudges, but the tutors just ran up the white flag of defeat before hostilities even commenced. Can it be that our Profs are afraid, or have the evils of old age rendered them unfit for such participation. It's not too late, though! How about matching the Profs against one of the intra-mural teams, say on All-Sports night, for instance. I think it can be ararnged so as to pit the "cellar team" of the league against you. What say you? After all, Prof. Chellevold's ankle should be O. K. by now; and Prof. Fritz, you'll have to lay off those cigars —hard on the wind!

—S—

Rough It Up, Girls!

Oh, you don't believe that girls' games are fast, rough, and exciting? Well, they are! Just look at Viv Gluck's black eye, or has the daily application of beefsteak rendered her discolored orb more pleasing to the eye? Oh, you say that she didn't get it while playing basketball? Must have been "Demothenes" Schultheiss then. What say you, Pres. Schultheiss? And then, too, there's always the old story of running into the door (which wasn't there) while on a sleep-walking jaunt.

The Little Knights dropped another game to the Denver Independents by a score of 32-27, Friday evening, Feb. 11. The game was thrilling and close all the way until the final period, when the Denver quintet drew away from the "B's". The score stood at 16 all at the half. Engelbrecht paced the Little Knights with 7 points followed by Kalkwarf and Ihnen with 6 a piece. Schroeder and Judas led the winners with 7 markers apiece.
